2015 Annual Program Report

A few words from the Board President...

The Sauk County Institute of Leadership (SCIL) is an independent 501(c)3 program dedicated to developing informed, civic-minded leaders who are committed to a vibrant Sauk County and local communities.

SCIL has graduated approximately 300 engaged and involved community leaders since its inception in 1998. The intensive nine-month course develops and enhances individual and group skillsets and is funded entirely from student fees. Participants are selected through a competitive application process and represent a true cross-section of Sauk County residents — from high-school students to working professionals to retired citizens continuing their life-long education. SCIL members demonstrate a desire to better their community through active participation in sessions on a variety of relevant local topics combined with leadership skill building and completion of a community service activity.

SCIL recognizes one local business or organization annually as an exceptional supporter of the program. This year, the award is presented to the University of Wisconsin-Baraboo/Sauk County. Founded in 1968 as a joint venture of the City of Baraboo, Sauk County and the University of Wisconsin System, UW-BSC is a liberal arts campus providing access to high quality UW educational programs; preparing students for success at the baccalaureate level of education; providing access to lifelong learning opportunities and university scholarship; and advancing the Wisconsin Idea by bringing the resources of the University to the residents of the state. Congratulations to UW-BSC for this achievement and for being a strong advocate of leadership and collaboration in Sauk County.

Finally, the SCIL Board would like to thank our numerous community and business partners, who encourage employees to participate, host SCIL sessions in their facilities, and provide volunteer speakers to share issues-based leadership expertise and experience. We would also like to thank Lisa Wenzel, UW Extension Community Resource Development/SCIL Program Advisor; Jenny Erickson, UW Extension Community Resource Development Educator; and the Sauk County Board of Supervisors for their ongoing support.

SCIL continues to contribute to the leadership potential and bright future of Sauk County. Please join me in congratulating the class of 2015!

In Their Own Words...

By attending the SCIL program you not only gain an inside out perspective of Sauk County's rich history but you also garner superb leadership skills you will take to retirement. Just another reason why Sauk County is great place to live, work and learn.

Kurt Cottier

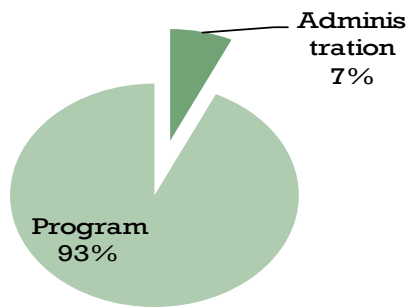

SCIL gave me the confidence to seek out what I am truly passionate about. While listening to and learning from speakers and classmates, I realized there is so much more I want out of my career and environment. Without this experience, I would still be doing the same thing and expecting a different result. Now, I am seeking out what truly makes not only me happy and successful, but what benefits my community. From natural resources, economic development, public safety and the arts to historic preservation, we truly live and work in an impressive area and should be proud of what we have currently and can absolutely see the bright future ahead.

In Their Own Words...

When I first heard about SCIL I thought this was exactly what I needed and I was so right. SCIL has been the best leadership development experience I have had. This opportunity was packed full of exercises and presenters that helped to develop new skills and sharpen others that already existed. There were many valuable lessons learned that I will be able to use not only in my professional life but also personally. The course content has been masterfully organized to provide a great perspective of all the elements associated with Sauk County and how they work together, need each other, and affect each other.

I love my SCIL group. We are a very diverse group, and I have learned something from each person — about their field of expertise, about our area and about them personally. At our last meeting I looked around the room and really thought about how talented each person is, and the impact they will have on Sauk County. I doubt I would have met any of these wonderful people if not for SCIL, and I look forward to our continued relationships for years to come. Sauk County is a beautiful, diverse, active area. I was born and raised here and now I am happy to know about it, and appreciate it, more than ever.

Being a recent transplant to Sauk County, I was eager to meet new people, learn more about the issues facing Sauk County residents, and develop leadership skills to be successful at my job and also within my community. My SCIL experience was much more eye opening than I could have imagined — I was already in love with the county I call home, but SCIL helped to reinforce why I wanted to live here. I thought I knew a lot about Sauk County, but SCIL exposed me to so many more issues, resources, challenges, and successes that could be found in my school district, my neighborhood, or my township. I knew I had strong leadership skills, but SCIL helped to strengthen those existing leadership skills and expose those I did not know I had. I knew I'd develop relationships with my SCIL classmates, but SCIL provided a welcoming environment that helped to produce relationships I know will be life-long. I feel I am a more rounded citizen of Sauk County thanks to SCIL.
